

Management, Union Take Different Strike Views

By Leonard Randolph and Arman Williams
BANGOR—Blue Ridge Textile Co. management said last night that it had filed a petition on May 7 with the National Labor Relations Board for an election on union organizing in its plants. Edmund Turtzo, company attorney, told The Daily Record: "We understand that the union has filed a disclaimer in establishing an unwillingness to have a new election."

Blue Ridge employees defeated admission of the union as their agents in April, 1956 by a margin of 2 to 1. The union involved is the Textile Workers Union of America.

A top area official in the TWUA charged that the company had distorted the union's role in the present strike, meanwhile.

Samuel Frost, assistant regional director of TWUA, told The Daily Record that:

"In a recent newspaper advertisement, the Blue Ridge Textile Co., refused to face the facts and blamed the strike on the TWUA. 'The Textile Workers Union knew absolutely nothing about the strike until hours after it had occurred. It was perpetuated entirely by the action of the people themselves who were employed by the company."

Frost said that strikers told him yesterday that the company "has refused to bargain collectively." He said workers had "repeatedly asked the company to bargain with a committee of workers" in an effort to settle the dispute.

Blue Ridge president William Winkler told The Record that: "We do not oppose unions in any way, shape or form. We have not been approached, up to this time, by anyone to bargain on any phase of the problem. The door is open for bargaining or for work as it always has been."

Frost said that strikers told him that "only 40 out of 280 employees of the company" reported back to work yesterday. Yesterday morning was the time set by Winkler for reopening the company's major operations.

Asked to comment on this, Winkler said:

"The company is very happy with resumption of work at the plants. Our employees have returned in sufficient number to meet the commitments of our trade and satisfy orders we have on hand."

Blue Ridge strikers, meanwhile, got an offer last night from unions in Monroe and Northampton County.

Through the AFL-CIO Council of Northampton County, the unions offered their full-hearted support. The offer was made public by Jack McLaughlin, president of the Northampton AFL-CIO council.

A similar offer came from the Delaware Valley Joint Boards of the Textile Workers Union of America.

Meeting at the Textile Union Building in Easton, the boards—which represent 2,200 members of 12 locals in this area—were addressed by Sol Stetin, regional TWUA director.

Stetin pledged the full cooperation of the TWUA and its members to help employees of the Blue Ridge plants.

The offer was being made, Stetin said, to help Blue Ridge workers "to secure wage increases and to help eliminate the inhumane speed-up of the incentive system now being used by the company which has caused the workers to strike."

"The union is ready to cooperate in any way it can to settle this dispute," Stetin said.

Membership of the Council voted to give all moral and financial support to the workers of the Blue Ridge plants in Bangor "who are presently on strike."

Winkler's only comment on the Council action was this:

"We don't even know what we have done that would cause this strike. Or what would possibly cause other unions here in our area to take a stand against the company."

"Our incentive plan has been given to a department in our company and an increase from $1.63 to an average of $1.85 was noted before the Christmas holidays in improving the wages in this department. Since Christmas, top earnings in that department have gone as high as $2.40 per hour."

Turtzo called injection of the incentive plan into the dispute "ridiculous."

In a statement last night, he said: "The employees themselves have stated to management from time to time—before, during and after the strike—that no matter what the outcome of this dispute may be the last thing they want taken out of the employee-management relation plan at Blue Ridge is the incentive plan we have. It's an advantage over anything they've ever earned."

"It's ridiculous for them to say this. An incentive plan is something which ends a strike—not starts it."

Congress Wraps Up Initial Money Bill

WASHINGTON, May 16 (U)—Congress wrapped up and sent to the White House today its first big money bill of the year, and Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) proclaimed:

"We have saved $80,363,000 for the taxpayers in the first of the 15 annual appropriations."

The $3,884,927,000 bill, to finance the Treasury and Post Office departments and the tax court, was $80,363,000 smaller than President Eisenhower had asked.

While the reduction was only two per cent, it symbolized the uphill struggle Eisenhower is in for in his effort to get all, or nearly all, of the $71,800,000,000 he plans to spend in the year beginning July 1.

Appeals

His newest appeals in support of the budget, voiced in a speech to the nation Tuesday night and in his news conference yesterday, developed little if any effective response.

Other bills nearing final action are carrying cuts averaging eight per cent under White House requests, and even deeper slashes have been predicted for some items like foreign aid which are yet to reach either the House or Senate.

The Treasury-post office bill was dispatched to the White House—"put it on roller skates," Johnson jokingly suggested to Senate clerks—after the Senate accepted a minor House amendment.

The total included $691,467,000 for the Treasury, a cut of $22,364,000 under White House figures; $3,192,000,000 for the Post Office, a cut of $58,000,000; and $1,480,000 for the tax court, with no cut.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) predicted that the Post Office will call for more money before the year is over.

New Sub Launched

GROTON, Conn., May 16 (U)—The USS Skate, the nation's third atomic-powered submarine, slid smoothly down the ways shortly after noon today, a 50-million-dollar bundle of nuclear energy.

Beck Features Fifth Amendment

WASHINGTON, May 16 (U)—A grim-faced Dave Beck took the Fifth Amendment again and again today at a swiftly moving Senate inquiry marked by these other developments: 1. A Teamsters Union bookkeeper testified he had no idea that Beck was using union funds until Beck paid back $200,000 in 1954.

2. The bookkeeper, Donald McDonald of Seattle, disclosed Beck has repaid $370,000, having sent in $100,000 within the last two weeks.

3. The Senate Rackets Committee confronted Beck with a list of some 52 ways in which it charged he has "misused his authority, position and trust." The portly Teamsters boss entered a blanket denial by refusing to answer questions on the ground he might incriminate himself.

Uncover

4. Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) declared the inquiry has uncovered "an alliance of big business with big labor with apparently little regard being paid to the rights of union members whose funds were involved." Kennedy said his remarks were aimed at officials of the Anheuser-Busch brewery, St. Louis; the Fruehauf Trailer Co., Detroit; Associated Transport Truck Lines, New York; Occidental Life Insurance Co. of California, Los Angeles; and Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago.

5. Testimony was given that two writers for the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Nard Jones and Douglass Welch, were carried on the Teamsters payroll while writing a life story of Beck entitled "The Driver's Seat." Beck was said to have given the union a check for $12,987.51 last week to cover the money paid out to the writers.

6. Beck dodged a question by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) as to whether he would resign as Teamsters president if requested to.

7. Elusive Norman Gessert, a cousin of Beck's wife, finally appeared before the committee, but his testimony was postponed until tomorrow at least to give him time to consult with an attorney. Gessert, sought for weeks, finally was subpoenaed in Washington State yesterday. The senators want to question him about missing witnesses and financial deals with Beck.

8. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), committee chairman, challenged the Teamsters Union to find out for itself whether the charges against its president are "fact or fiction."

Bloody Rocks Introduced Into Court

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 16 (U)—A crowded courtroom stood silent today as two bloody rocks believed to have been used to batter to death Victoria Zielinski, 15, were introduced into evidence.

Also introduced in a day of legal wrangling were the torn and bloody clothes of the Ramsey High School student whose body was found by her father last March 4 in a secluded gravel pit in Mahwah.

Edgar Smith, 23, an ex-Marine on trial in the slaying, sat sternly as the gruesome exhibits were introduced.

He drummed his fingers nervously as Capt. James W. Stewart, chief of Bergen County detectives, told of the gory trail that led to the girl's body.

Stewart said he found a bobby pin, a kerchief, a loafer and a hank of hair leading up to the mound behind which her crumpled body lay.

Arguments

Much of the session was taken up with technical arguments over admission as evidence of enlarged color photographs taken at the scene of the murder.

John E. Seiser, Smith's attorney, objected that the color of the pictures was not accurate. However, Bergen County Judge Arthur J. O'Dea overruled him and the pictures were introduced.

Several of the three women and 11 men on the jury glanced quickly at the defendant as the pictures were shown on a viewer.

Even the balcony of the courtroom was jammed with spectators throughout the day and many had to stand. The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Zielinski, sat in a rear row with their children, Anthony 11, and Patricia, 18. Smith's wife, Patricia, 21, also watched gravely from the spectator benches.

Prosecutor Guy W. Callissi, attorney for the state, declined to say whether he would call Donald Hammell, 21, as a witness. Seiser dramatically introduced Hammell's name into the trial yesterday when he claimed that the Ramsey youth had been seen with Victoria in the gravel pit by Smith the night of the crime.

Victoria was born near Honesdale and buried at the same place.

Benson Sees Pileup Of Surpluses

WASHINGTON, May 16 (U)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson today predicted a further pileup of costly farm surpluses if yesterday's House vote to junk the major part of the Eisenhower administration's soil bank program is allowed to stand.

"Surpluses will again pile up at the expense of our taxpayers," he said.

Benson denounced the House action, in which 38 Republicans joined 154 Democrats, as "false economy." Voting against the surprise move to cut off the 750-million-dollar acreage reserve part of the soil bank program after this year were 141 Republicans and 46 Democrats. Thus the tally to end further soil bank subsidy payments was 192-187.

Benson addressed his words to the House Agriculture Committee, but he was aiming them at Senate ears, since the next move is up to that chamber.

"If the acreage reserve is not permitted to function for 1958 crops," he said, "there is every likelihood that surpluses will pile up still further, rather than diminish."

24 Perish In Snow, Floods

A SNARLING BLIZZARD dumped up to two feet of snow across the central Rocky Mountains Thursday against flood threats and one Texas community counted the dead after the season's worst tornado.

At least 24 died as a result of the weather.

The Far West and the Northeast enjoyed fair weather. Thunderstorms drenched scattered areas from the Northern Plains into the Great Lakes region.

The snowstorm, hitting hardest at Colorado and Wyoming, was termed the worst May blizzard in seven years in that area. It snarled traffic in cities and sent rivers out of their banks.

Monarch Pass, where U.S. Highway 50 crosses the Continental Divide, had 24 inches of new snow, and Loveland and Berthoud Passes on U.S. Highway 6 and U.S. 40, west of Denver, each reported a foot and a half as the fall continued.

Patrol

The Colorado highway patrol reported the South Platte and St. Vrain Rivers at flood stage in the Fort Lupton, Platteville and Longmont areas north of Denver. Denver measured more than four inches of snow.

Meanwhile, Texas state police set the toll of known dead at 19 and counted 58 persons hospitalized in the wake of the most deadly tornado of the season's violent weather there. The twister whirled down on the little town of Silverton, some 65 miles southeast of Amarillo, Wednesday night.

Officials at the scene estimated as many as 80 persons were hurt. Not all required hospitalization. Unofficial estimates of property damage ranged beyond three-quarter million dollars.

The U.S. Weather Bureau reported more than a dozen tornadoes had been sighted in Texas Wednesday night.

With as much as 12 feet of floodwater covering some areas, residents of northern Oklahoma prepared for an expected record overflow along the Cimarron River. The flood threats came after torrential rains, ranging up to more than 18 inches, drenched the river's watershed.

The downpour inundated the town of Dover and sent high waters into Enid, Alva, Hennessey and Waynoka.

Authorities counted five persons dead in the flood area and said the record overflow could be expected along the Cimarron sometime Friday.

The heavy precipitation extended from the central Rockies across the Plains and into the mid-Mississippi Valley. Thunderstorms drenched much of the area and portions of the Great Lakes states.

Thundershowers started to break out along the Florida peninsula Thursday and rainfalls hit scattered parts of the Southeast.

Temperatures dipped into the 40s and 50s as cool Canadian air covered parts of the Ohio Valley and central Appalachians. More cold weather was forecast for the Great Lakes and the Northeast.

State House Kills Leader's College Plan

HARRISBURG, May 16 (U)—The House today sounded the death knell for Gov. Leader's proposed college opportunity program in the 1957 Legislature.

It ordered a long-range study of the plan by the Joint State Government Commission, the Legislature's research arm. The Senate was expected to concur quickly on the measure.

House Democrats withdrew opposition to the resolution after the GOP made it clear the Leader program would not be released from the House Education Committee.

"We have no other choice but to act in favor of this resolution," declared Rep. McCann (D-Greene).

Answer

Rep. Johnson, Republican floor leader, said the resolution is "our (Republican) answer to the scholarship program."

"The present thinking of the majority (GOP) is we would prefer to have the Joint State Government Commission study this question before we act," he added.

The hour-long discussion of the school study resolution highlighted an otherwise non-controversial House session at which 19 bills were passed unanimously and several others were approved over token opposition.

Another resolution passed by the House in a voice vote requests the Automobile Safety Foundation—an independent research agency—to make a study of the Pennsylvania highway system and the Highways department.

The measure was approved without debate. It must also be approved by the Senate.

13,000 Hear Billy Graham

NEW YORK, May 16 (U)—Billy Graham bore down on sin tonight—particularly sin in New York City—and he again brought hundreds of people to their knees.

It was the second night of the evangelist's crusade to start a spiritual bonfire in this city and about 13,000 people gathered at Madison Square Garden for the service. The Garden can hold about 18,500 for the crusade.

Salvation

Graham pounded at the old doctrines of sin, repentance and salvation in his sermon. He said New York is crying for cleansing from its evil.

"Jesus puts his finger on the trouble in New York when he says that we are morally sick," he said.

Only One Discovered At True Mark

OUT OF 100 bags of flour weighed in area stores the past two days 99 showed "short-weight", John Schimmel, inspector of weights and measures said yesterday.

Schimmel said that the shortage in packaging showed up in all sizes—two, five, 10 and 25 pound bags.

The State weights and measures inspector emphasized again that "stores in this area and store owners or operators are not responsible for the short-weight in flour packaging."

Full responsibility for any shortages lies with the distributing companies, Schimmel said. In nearly all cases these are "national concerns" who package and distribute flour on a nationwide basis.

Schimmel said that, in most cases, the shortages ranged from an ounce to five to seven ounces.

In one store, he reported, two 25-pound bags weighed in at 24 pounds and nine ounces and 24 pounds, 19 ounces respectively. The weight of the bag in each of those cases was included. That weight is four ounces.

This would mean that the two bags actually contained only 24 pounds, five ounces and 24 pounds, six ounces. The first bag would be 11 ounces short; the second, 10 ounces short—or nearly a full pound.

"To a lot of consumers, a few ounces may not seem like much," Schimmel said. "But when you multiply those few bags—even the full 100 we have investigated so far—by a full carload of flour in packages, you have a tremendous shortage."

At another market, the inspector said, investigators could not find one single full five-pound bag in the store. The packages weighed four pounds, 14 or four pounds, 15 ounces without too much variation.

These weights, again, included the weight of the bag (three-quarters of an ounce), Schimmel said.

Schimmel is being assisted in the local investigation by Ralph Van Buskirk, weights and measures official in Monroe County.

The local investigation is part of a State-wide crackdown on weight-measure violations by flour milling and packaging companies.

Schimmel said yesterday that repeated warnings had been given to national flour distributing companies about the short-weight problem. State officials have received little more than "excuses" from flour company officials, he said.

The state inspector repeated his warning to customers to insist that flour bags be weighed before final purchase is made. If there is a shortage, he said, the customer should not accept the flour.

He reiterated that customers "should not blame the local store owner under any circumstances." The blame for any short-weight in packaging lies with the national firm, he said.

President Salutes Active Servicemen

PRESIDENT Dwight Eisenhower, in setting aside Armed Forces Day his year, issued the following proclamation:

"This is the day, set aside for the past eight years, to salute our fellow citizens serving in the Armed Forces of the United States. We have provided our military personnel with the finest equipment and training in the world, but it is equally essential for them to know they have our respect and appreciation.

"It is a privilege to join in honoring them and I urge all citizens, wherever the limits of time and distance permit, to take part in the observance of Armed Forces Day.

"By arms, by work and by spirit, it is the responsibility of each citizen to help in the defense of the national community."

In Monroe County, the celebration marking Armed Forces Day will be concentrated within the gates of Tobyhanna Signal Depot. But that celebration will contain important elements of all other phases of America's defense lineup.

Col. Robert C. Angster, commanding officer at the Depot, says that the exhibits and actual demonstrations will provide an accurate and concise summary of the operation of all U. S. objective of "Power for Peace."

Gates at the Depot will open to the thousands of visitors promptly at 9:30 a.m. They will close after formal retreat ceremonies at 3:30 p.m. Depot officials anticipate more than 25,000 visitors from the area.

Appointed hostesses will greet visitors at the Administration Building, the mammoth "X"-shaped structure which serves as the heart of the depot's operations. All three floors of this ultra-modern building will be filled with exhibits and displays by all of the military services in this area.

Visitors will also tour the maintenance division, storage warehouse and the Depot's brand-new packaging division center where the latest techniques and developments in packaging and testing will be demonstrated.

Besides latest Signal Corps electronics, communications and radar equipment, there will be displays of chemical and gas warfare material from Edgewood Arsenal; light and heavy ordnance displays featuring recoilless weapons from Letterkenny Ordnance Depot and Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

Nike "Ajax" guided missiles will be on display in front of the Administration Building.

All residents of Monroe County and surrounding areas are cordially invited to attend the "Open House" in honor of Armed Forces Day, Col. Angster said.

ANGELS — Fire Warden William House, who recently marked his 76th birthday, daily climbs the 76 steps of the Gouldsboro Fire Tower during May and June to watch for telltale signs of smoke in the forests surrounding Newfoundland.

Rain has eased the worries of Warden House, who reported he "felt as if he were sitting on a powder keg" during the recent dry spell.

General Hospital Granted Renewal Of Accreditation Rating

Award Among Highest In Nation

MAINTAINING the rigid standards set up by the Joint Commission on Accreditation has earned General Hospital of Monroe County a renewal of its certificate of accreditation.

Announcement of the award, one of the highest honors that a hospital can earn, came yesterday in a letter sent by the commission to Harry J. Smith, superintendent of the hospital. Copies of the letter went to Frank S. LaBar, president of the governing board, and Dr. Charles S. Flagler, chief of staff.

"The commission wishes to commend you for maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for your constant effort to improve the quality of patient care," the letter said in part.

It was signed by Dr. Kenneth W. Babcock, director of the commission with home offices in Chicago.

Represented on the commission which sets the standards by which hospitals must operate to attain accreditation are the American College of Physicians, American College of Surgeons, American Hospital Assn., American Medical Assn. and Canadian Medical Assn.

The commission assigns field representatives to make detailed inspections of each hospital, giving special attention to type of service offered, a review of the hospital's work for several years, organization and functioning of its staff, method of keeping medical records, whether departmentalized and physical shape of the plant.

Superintendent Smith said the local hospital was first certified for accreditation in 1941 by the College of Surgeons, which group conducted the evaluation of American hospitals until slightly more than three years ago.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation was then formed by the same five agencies that comprise the present membership. At the same time, Smith said, more rigid inspection procedures were adopted in evaluating the various hospitals.

The commission made its first evaluation of the Monroe County General Hospital on June 4, 1954 and issued a certificate of accreditation on July 30 of the same year.

The latest evaluation took place April 4, this year, when Dr. Eric W. Thurston spent the entire day making a thorough inspection of the local institution, Smith said. The hospital supplemented his findings with replies to an 11-page questionnaire submitted by the commission. The results were made known yesterday, in the letter sent by Dr. Babcock.

Capacity Enrollment Marks Opening Day Of Radiological Defense School At College

A CAPACITY enrollment marked the opening yesterday of the two-day State and Monroe County radiological defense school currently being conducted at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Director and instructor for the course is Col. Edwin H. Feather, Director of Training for the State Council of Civil Defense.

Representation at the school is made up of the heads of the radiological division, of the 19 counties comprising the Eastern Area together with assistants and key personnel of these counties.

The purpose of the course is to train instructors to conduct radiological classes and workshop sessions in each of the participating counties.

Sessions began at 10 a. m. yesterday when the group was addressed by Paul Crown, executive director of Monroe County Civil Defense, who officially welcomed the enrollees to Monroe County and introduced Col. Feather and the key officials of Monroe County Civil Defense, including Dr. W. Grady Moore.

Chief of Radiological Defense for the county and Dr. George Gessner. Both are members of the local college science department.

During the morning sessions Col. Feather outlined the problems of radiological defense and showed how an organization can be established to combat the hazard and disaster imposed by radiological fallout and the resultant exposure to radiation.

Sound motion pictures were shown which dramatized graphically the damage done by the nuclear bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in Japan and other test bombings.

Col. Feather then in a blackboard discussion explained the theory of atomic energy and the processes of fission and fusion as well as methods to be used to protect the public from the dangers of radiation.

A demonstration of the latest equipment in the forms of various types of dosimeters, geiger counters and detection devices followed. The theories governing the operation of these devices were explained by intricate blackboard designs and computations.

Last night's discussion was confined to the "Biological Effects of Nuclear Radiation" and the methods of conducting a radiation survey.

Sessions will resume at 9 a. m. today and continue until 4 p. m., with lunch hour from noon until 1 p. m.

Those in attendance yesterday were: Lackawanna County—Russell Dinkun and Richard W. Haas; Carbon County—J. R. DeVore, H. E. Swanson, Mahlon Gerhard, Robert R. King, Francis P. Boyle, Joseph Matika, Frank E. Wehr, Raymond Peterson and Thomas Barr Jr.; Wayne County—Jack Siberlicht; Pike County—Ralph Turn Jr. and Andrew Lewis; Bucks County—George S. ## Car Suffers Heavy Damage In Accident

A COLLISION between a truck and an automobile two miles south of Stroudsburg resulted in almost total destruction of the auto and minor damage to the truck yesterday.

Four occupants of the car were taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County and released after treatment for multiple contusions and abrasions.

The car, a 1956 model, was owned and driven by Anna C. Courtright, of Marshalls Creek. Her three companions were Mrs. Sarah Kirkham, Mrs. Laura Treible, and Mrs. Bessie Small, all of East Stroudsburg.

The truck was driven by Donald H. Cleveland, and owned by H. L. Cleveland and Sons, of East Stroudsburg.

An estimated $2400 injury was suffered by the automobile.

Miss Courtright was traveling north towards Stroudsburg when she was struck by the 1954 truck as she came out of the intersection of Legislative routes 4501 and 4502 near Minisink Hills. The right front of her auto collided with the left front of the truck.

Full Airing Should Precede Decision

Congratulations are due the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club for bringing to this community a speaker with considerable background in municipal affairs.

Herman L. Otto, director of the Pennsylvania Economy League, was the man chosen to discuss various phases of the proposed consolidation of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

The two boroughs are deliberating whether to merge their municipal governments in a step that proponents feel would benefit the consolidated community.

Outsiders such as Mr. Otto can assess the situation from the standpoint of tangibles—municipal facilities and services like sewer systems, water supply and streets, police and fire departments, schools, bonded indebtedness, taxation, etc.

These are the things which must be weighed carefully before any decision is reached on consolidation.

Less important facets, the intangibles, are less likely to prejudice the outsider for or against consolidation. These would include local pride, petty jealousies, vested political interests and other situations which may help to paint an untrue picture of the issues faced.

Mr. Otto spoke objectively on the consolidation question. While leaning toward the move, he nevertheless acknowledged there are no examples of merger in Pennsylvania of two boroughs of equal size with independent governmental agencies.

But it matters not at this point whether the speaker is for or against consolidation. What is more important is that all the issues be met head-on and that every citizen and every other taxpayer, regardless of his residence, enter into the discussions with the sole purpose of arriving at the best, most practical solution.

Other organizations would do a real service to the community to sponsor similar open discussions that would bring out every last argument on both sides. Whether in large groups or small, the facts and opinions expressed would go far in informing the public of all the points involved. Then, when the time comes for a decision, the best possible decision can be reached.

Wrong Career Harmful To A Very Shy Person

By Anne Heywood

When I was young, I was painfully shy, and so was my best friend. Our families, who were also friends, decided to do something about it and forced us to be in the high school dramatic club.

The club didn't have too much appeal, so they would take almost anybody. But believe me, when it came to acting, we were a new low in talent.

However, the point is this: it worked for me. Forcing me to appear before all those people did cure my shyness. But it didn't work with my friend. It made her even more shy and miserable. She was helped only after she was allowed to resign from the cast and work with the librarian, deep in the dusty recesses of the files!

Parents of shy children should bear that point in mind. Sometimes, the cure is to force the child into a wildly extroverted field—and sometimes that's the worst thing you can do.

In our case, it wasn't too fatal, because it was just a high school extra-curricular activity. But I've seen parents shove shy youngsters into the wrong career—and that can be much more serious. "I want Jim to be a salesman," a mother told me recently. "He's so shy, it's painful. His father and I think that working with people will be perfect for him. It will help him get over it."

Careful Handling. Well, it might, but it has to be handled very carefully. If Jim is forced into door-to-door selling of a product he doesn't like, it may well shatter him. But if he is encouraged to look around until he finds a product he really likes, he may get so enthusiastic about it, that he will get over his shyness entirely in his excitement about the product.

On the other hand, many shy children are really incapable of working in the "people businesses," and ought to be steered into the more introverted kinds of fields. At any rate, they should be given some kind of skill, during their education, which will enable them to enter such a field if they want to.

Can Support Themselves. On general principles, a shy youngster should be encouraged to learn typing and bookkeeping.

Forcing Her On The Stage Made Her Even More Shy

If they have any aptitude along those lines, let them take some course in accounting, library work or filing. That way, they'll always be able to make a living without themselves being forced to take jobs that don't appeal to them if their shyness persists—as it did with my friend.

If shyness is just a phase they'll outgrow, as it was with me, there's no harm in knowing typing, accounting, etc., but there's great danger in letting a shy person loose in the working world without any skills of the sort that a shy person can use!

Ike May Invite Zhukov To Visit U.S. In Fall

Washington, May 16—President Eisenhower is thinking of inviting Marshal Zhukov to visit here in the fall.

Key assistants of the President are being sounded out on this spectacular plan. He is asking them "for comment" on a memorandum discussing the matter in detail.

The memorandum carefully states that no decision has yet been made on such an invitation to the President's war-time Russian friend. What is being sought from the cabinet members and other Administration leaders is their views on the advantages and disadvantages of the idea.

The President also discussed it at a meeting of the National Security Council, top policy agency over which he personally presides. The President expressed the opinion that a visit by Zhukov might favorably influence him and other Soviet leaders.

The last time the President and the Red military chief met was at the "summit" conference in Geneva in the summer of 1954. Subsequently they exchanged letters. The President also sent a gift to Zhukov's daughter upon her marriage.

NOTE—A national weekly is negotiating with the White House for publication of the correspondence between the President and Zhukov. Press secretary Hagerty has asked Secretary Dulles and other authorities for their reactions on this proposal.

Lucky Guy—Secretary Dulles has let senators in on a deep diplomatic secret.

Sir Harold Caccia, the British Ambassador, has a $100,000-a-year "entertainment fund."

That is double the $50,000 the President is allowed for this purpose.

The interesting bit of diplomatic information was disclosed by Dulles at a meeting with Senate Appropriations Committee members, during which he pleaded with them to restore the State Department's $1,200,000 "entertainment fund," which the House slashed to $672,800.

As evidence of the need for the full amount, Dulles cited the British Ambassador's hefty allowance for this purpose.

NOTE—Another Big Four foreign ministers conference is in the wind, despite Secretary Dulles' shrugging off that idea in response to a question at his press conference. Notwithstanding that denial, he has sent a memorandum to a House Appropriations Subcommittee requesting $325,000 for expenses for a Big Four meeting. The memo states such a parley is likely in 1958. Representative John Rooney (D., N.Y.), chairman, has pigeonholed the proposal "pending further details on what it's all about."

Free Hand—The Navy plans to build six atomic-powered super-aircraft carriers by 1965.

Estimated cost of these immense vessels is $1,800,000,000.

That's what Admiral Arleigh Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, informed the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of his budget. He also disclosed the Joint Chiefs of Staff have given the Navy a free hand in determining the type of carriers to be built.

The Joint Chiefs limited the total of these vessels to 15, but put no other strings on them.

This significant decision was brought out by Representative George Mahon (D., Tex.), chairman, who asked if an atomic carrier is expressly proposed in the pending budget.

"No, it is not," explained Burke. "The Joint Chiefs authorized 15 carriers, but did not specify what kind they should be. That was left up to us."

According to Burke, an atomic carrier will have eight reactors and be able to go 70,000 miles without refueling. The cost of the first of these carriers, which the Navy wants to lay down in 1958, is estimated at more than $310,000,000.

NOTE—Only NAUTILUS type reactors will be used in new atomic submarines. The reactor installed in the SEA WOLF, second nuclear sub, is being discarded as faulty and unsafe. Admiral Burke told Representative Mahon, "In the future, we plan to use high-pressure water systems, the same basic type in the NAUTILUS, unless research develops improvements that overcome the difficulties of the sodium plant in the SEA WOLF. At present, the outlook for such improvements is not promising."

Social Whirl—A one-time society favorite is returning to the Capital in a new role. Miss Sharon Douglas, blonde daughter of former Ambassador Lewis Douglas, is back in her "old stamping ground" as publicity agent for a British war movie. The coffee and tea served at Ngo Dinh Diem's dinner for President Eisenhower was brought especially for the occasion from Vietnam. Features of the menu were pigeon soup, fish stuffed with shrimp, "gold coin" chicken, rice cakes, and rice wine—which packs a potent wallop. The luncheon in Senator Margaret Chase Smith's (R., Me.) honor, by the Air Force Officers Wives Club, had unusual place cards. They consisted of Maine potatoes and miniature Maine flags. Officers from 63 nations attended the annual dinner-dance of the Association of Military Attaches. All were in dress uniform, and the glittering effect outshone the ball gowns of the ladies. This was one occasion when the men definitely out-glamored the women. Most common language used at the party was English.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

The Great Showmen "The Ziegfeld Follies" title lights up the Broadway sky. After so many years the fabulous showman's name remains "box-office."

... This turn of events represents one of fate's cruel little jokes. ... During his final impoverished days Ziegfeld was unable to find backers for his

"Follies." It was a melancholy finale for a man who utilized luxuries as necessities. He distributed bags of gold coins to friends, gave a $1,000 bill to Mark Hellinger as a wedding gift, hired private railroad cars for a 3-hour journey and spent a fortune erecting a private zoo for his daughter's amusement. Then his glided world tottered. ... He dropped over a million in the '29 crash. When he tried to recoup his market losses with the show "Smiles"—it flopped hard. ... Suddenly, the music and magic ended for Ziegfeld. He was broken financially, physically and hounded by creditors. ... Ironically, after the showman passed, the Shuberts paid a huge sum to commemorate the title, "Ziegfeld Follies."

Although the primary function of a showman is to anticipate what the public will accept, it is frequently a puzzle which has baffled most of them. ... George M. Cohan was one of the most successful showmen. During one year his royalties (on plays, sketches and songs) were over a million dollars. And during that period, folks, taxes were practically zero. Nevertheless, Mr. Cohan spurned opportunities to sponsor such clicks as "Broadway," "Peg o' My Heart" and many others.

Objection Raised To Raising Speed Limit

Legislation introduced in the General Assembly to permit cars and buses to travel 60 miles per hour on all state highways is a clear-cut case of trying to go too fast, too soon.

The basic speed limit in Pennsylvania now is 50 miles per hour. Since 1953, the highways secretary has been empowered to mark certain stretches of highway at 60 miles per hour after due investigation has shown that such speed would be safe on that portion of road.

The highway must be carefully posted with signs marking the beginning and end of the speed zone and posting the speed limit every one-eighth of a mile.

Undoubtedly, there are divided-lane highways that can safely take the higher speed. The 1953 regulation was designed to enable the highways secretary to move the traffic over those specific roadways at a higher rate of speed. Two area example where this has been done: A section of Route 22 and the York Expressway.

But it is ridiculous to assume that every state highway can take this higher speed. Motorists who use our state roads know that many of them just aren't up to the higher speeds.

What about the safety aspect?

The Association of Casualty and Surety Companies reported recently, after careful study, that 50 miles per hour is the demarcation line between reasonable speed limits and those that compound our traffic problems. And another report stresses that at speeds over 50 miles an hour a driver's range of clear vision gets narrower and narrower.

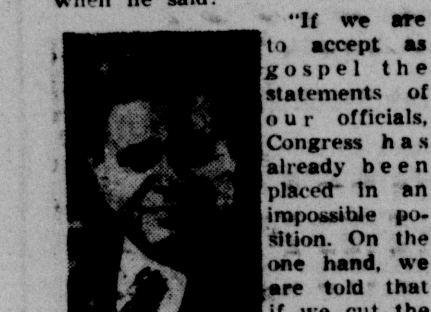

The time may come when all state highways, autos and drivers will be equally fit for higher speeds. But at a time when we're trying to save lives on our roads, it would be self-defeating to raise the speed limit regardless of highway conditions.

What Are 4,000 U. S. Office-Holders Doing In Formosa? Envoy Urges 50 Percent Cut

Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas made a rather good point when he said:

"If we are to accept as gospel the statements of our officials, Congress has already been placed in an impossible position. On the one hand, we are told that if we cut the budget, we will 'breach the Nation's security.' On the other hand, we are told that if we do not cut the budget, we will have a hair-curling depression. Congress has been told that whatever it does—cut or not cut—Congress will hurt the country. It is about time that the administration made up its mind, so that Congress can proceed to do a prudent job, free of conflicting pressures and varieties of propaganda."

Of course, the real difficulty is that the Secretary of the Treasury and his staff dislike being offensive and therefore do not really say what they mean which is that the credit of the country has been impaired and that U. S. government bonds offered on the market are not readily taken up.

To say that formally is to label the inflation and to frighten the public which can further endanger the bond market and nothing really could be worse. So while all the great minds devote themselves to how to straighten out an appallingly confused budget and how to loiter taxes which is a political necessity, the realistic trouble is in the bond market. When a government cannot borrow money on reasonable terms, it must either cut its budget, increase its taxes or both, and as the Eisenhower Administration does not wish to cut its budget, it will have to increase the tax rate by further reducing the value of the dollar.

It is very bad economics and even worse financing but the President seems to be obstinately set in his course, and as he has no political future to look to, he is not subject to the usual pressures of public opinion.

It could work out well for the United States that a President unable to succeed himself works for the public good without regard to the effects of his conduct upon his popularity.

But it could also work out the other way, namely, that a President unable to succeed himself disregards both public opinion and the dictates of wisdom.

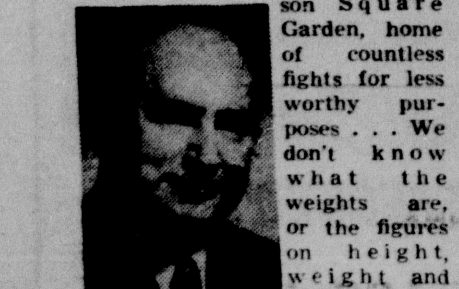

He could become arbitrary and obstinate and devote the few remaining years of public life to the warming company of personal friends and the wisdom of boon companions whose greatest virtue could be some personal skill or amusing tomfoolery, just as medieval kings had jesters, flatterers and men skilled at jousts and bouts of various nature, whose personalities pleased and who, if they did not die with their heads cut off, left great fortunes to their progeny.

The real danger to any republic is that it could cease to be a republic and become, instead, an oligarchy, even an elite.

The Once Over

Billy Graham, noted evangelist, has at last tackled New York and is battling the Devil in Madison Square Garden, home of countless fights for less worthy purposes. ... We don't know what the weights are, or the figures on height, weight and reach, but Billy has looks, personality, aggressiveness, staying power and plenty of punch on past performances. ... It is the fashion to declare New York the home of the Devil, but in our book he is no more a permanent and top resident there than anywhere else. ... Much of Gotham's evil is imaginary. ... We lived there for many years and never felt in much danger until we went to other cities and towns.

Consequently we rate both Billy and Satan as visiting fighters, in anticipating a struggle that will do the metropolis and environs no harm and can do it great good. ... There have been few evangelists in history with more on the ball than the youthful, handsome, highly intelligent and oratorically gifted Graham. ... The touch of show business is helpful in any cause, and if it heightens the public interest in such important things as religion this corner is for it. ... Billy Graham has showmanship in his very nature. ... He combines, we think, the qualities of a great actor, top salesman, talented speaker and old-time fiery preacher.

of the gospel. He can be dramatic without hamming it up.

Billy Graham knows that the microphone is here to stay, that there is no excuse for not using it in any real effort to reach an audience and that it is not just a gadget reluctantly put near a pulpit and never to be adjusted for height, distance and voice. ... We hope a lot of preachers of all faiths and creeds will listen and at least get some pointers on keeping a congregation awake.

It is our belief that in this day and age, when the wells of faith need stirring as never before, and when people everywhere are seeking spiritual regeneration, religion in America would find terrific impetus if all the churches of the land would see that their pastors speak as clearly, loudly and forcefully as they did in the days when neighborhoods echoed with their stirring messages of eternal truths.

UPON THEIR HONOR—these East Stroudsburg High School Students also had heaped garlands of praise yesterday as they were installed as members of National Honor Society chapter at school. ## Pocono Lake Preserve Dam Near Completion

POCONO LAKE—A dam will be ready to begin impounding water on Tobyhanna Creek at the lower end of Pocono Lake next week.

Nelson Miller, caretaker for lands owned by Pocono Lake Preserve, said last night that the dam is being built at an estimated cost of $600,000.

Workmen began this week putting the closure on the 200-foot spillway of the dam. In addition to the spillway, the dam will have 60-foot overflow sections at each end, making it a total of 320 feet in length.

Miller said that it "will still be about a month" before all work on the dam is finished. Considerable work remains to be done on the bridge section on top of the dam.

The dam lies at an elevation of 1,633 feet above sea level. It is 35 feet high on the downstream side.

A bridge over the top of the dam will rise an estimated 11 feet above the dam crest. It will consist of a one-lane, 10-foot roadway with curbing and a sidewalk adding another three feet for a total of 13-foot width.

Contractor for the job is Central Pennsylvania Quarry Striping and Construction Co., Hazleton. This firm sub-let the job to Read and Kuhn Construction of Elysburg, Miller said.

The dam replaces the original structure on the lake which was destroyed in the August, 1955 flood, Miller said.

Pocono Lake covers approximately 1,000 acres of land owned by Pocono Lake Preserve, Inc., a private organization of land owners. At its widest point the lake is about three-fourths of a mile wide.

Construction of the dam is being made on Tobyhanna Creek, largest of the creeks feeding into the lake area. The dam is located in the southeast corner of the lake.

Honor Society Installs New Members

NEW MEMBERS of the National Honor Society at East Stroudsburg Area High School were installed yesterday.

Carl T. Secor, supervising principal, was the main speaker. Ralph Carter, local society president, was in charge of the assembly. In giving his greetings, Carter pointed out that the finest heritage the students can leave their school depends on the development within the student body of four basic qualities—character, scholarship, service and leadership—which are the fundamental requisites for membership in the Honor Society.

Rehabilitation

Robert Wright, representing the school board, thanked the Society's supervisor, Charles Schaller and boys who are students in the school's industrial arts department for the fine construction work performed in rehabilitation of the playground.

A musical selection, "Tarantelle," was played by John Burrus. It was one of the bass horn selections which won a "superior" rating for Burrus in forensic and music competition recently.

Mrs. Martha Martin is the faculty adviser for the Honor Society at the school.

George Englehardt, Dr. John Wildrick, Robert Fuls and James S. Bunnell.

Officers named were LaBar president; Englehardt, vice president; Bunnell, secretary-treasurer.

Dividing Mums Important To Proper Growth In Spring

GARDEN MUMS: This department has been asked why it is that garden mums grow so tall and spindly. One main reason for this is that the plants are not divided in Spring. It's a good idea to lift the clumps now and remove the outside shoots that have started to form. This can be done anytime now. The small outside shoots make nice big plants for the garden, and it's a lot better to start new plants this way than to allow the clumps to go untouched. Just take a spade, lift the clumps and then with your hands pry off the outside divisions can have two or three shoots, with roots still attached. They may look small, but if planted about two feet apart in well-prepared soil, will give you lots of bloom by fall. If you allow your mums to go untouched, they'll bloom, but the stalks will grow tall and spindly.

Some gardeners take tips and root them in plain sand or soil. Mum cuttings root fast and will make just as good plants as those obtained from dividing. Most mum plants are so prolific with their side-shoots, it's probably just as easy to divide the plants and reset the rooted divisions.

Another way to keep your mums compact and bushy is to pinch them when about seven or eight inches high. Pinching consists of snipping out the tips (using thumb and forefinger). A second pinching can be given when the plants are about 15 inches high, although most gardeners seldom give over one pinching. Don't pinch after the 15th of July as you'll delay blooming. Pinching is not to be confused with "disbudding", the art of removing many of the young flower buds so that only one or two are allowed to remain in the stem, giving you flowers of larger size, rather than a lot of them of smaller size. Azaleas need no pinching as they grow naturally branchy.

Cutworms: The cutworm season is with us. You'll find the greasy-grayish worm curled up in soil, or under stones near plants. These worms are caterpillars of a brownish moth which lays eggs in summer. They cut off tomatoes, peppers, eggplants and flowers, near the soil surface.

Control: Many folks just paper collars (wax, aluminum, etc.) around the stem, allowing the collar to extend 1 1/2 inches into the soil. A quicker and easier method is to dust the soil and bases of plants with chlordane, methoxychlor, or DDT.

Question Box

R. E. of Stroudsburg: "Each year I raise a nice patch of strawberries. Last year we noticed the leaves developed reddish or purplish spots on them. Ever since then we have the same thing in them. Is it anything serious?"

You have the strawberry leaf spot, by far the most widespread and conspicuous of the strawberry troubles. Leaf spot first appears in May or early June, as small reddish or purplish spots on the foliage. Later the spots grow larger with ash gray centers, surrounded by a purple border. The disease is usually confined to leaves, but we've seen it on leaf stalks, fruit stalks, stolons, and even on the strawberry caps. On the berries it occasionally forms, being referred to as "black seed."

Another leaf spot disease of strawberries is called "Leaf scorch" and it can be distinguished from the common leaf spot by the extensive browning it causes to strawberry leaves. Large areas of the leaves dry up, giving leaves a scorched appearance. Leaf scorch is caused by a fungus which lives thru the winter on old leaves. In wet springs the trouble is worse, and it's not often a problem in the first season. It may be expected to become worse as the patch's age increases.

Women Bring Down Roof

CHELMSFORD, England, May 16 (AP) — The conductor told the Women's Institute choir: "Sing as you've never sung before — raise the roof if you like."

MAGIC KEYS by the hundreds are arriving daily at homes throughout this area and home-makers in every neighborhood are taking time out from household duties to talk about the mystery treasure chest loaded with gifts and awaiting the unlocking.

Among those hundreds of magic bits of metal are many that hold the power of rewarding their receivers handsomely. No one will know, however, until the key is turned in the lock of the treasure chest which ones are endowed with the mysterious power of "open sesame."

It's all real, though—no fairy tale whatsoever. Local appliance dealers are mailing out the keys as an invitation to drop in at their stores for a try at opening the "Electric Range Treasure Chest" of gifts and to view the beautiful new 1957 electric ranges that are winning acclaim everywhere for their advanced styling, decorator colors and added automatic features.

Homemakers who have not received a key may pick one up at any cooperating store. They are identified by the treasure chest emblem in their windows.

LATEST IN the sample homes being shown in the area is a new Boyne Falls Permanent Log Home which will be open for public inspection Sunday at Lake Valhalla. The house features a wood burning fireplace of unusual beauty, spacious sundeck on two sides of the building and pastel pink bathroom fixtures.

The home will be furnished by Star Furniture to give visitors a better idea of the beauty, convenience and livability of these well built homes.

The building has been constructed and is being put on display by Log Cabin Gal, agency operated by Steve Bahnick of Wind Gap, Pa. Free catalogs are available showing various models of the buildings.

Extra added attraction of the day will be a fashion show on the beach, the latest beach fashions will be modeled courtesy of Suzanne's of Bangor, Pa. Refreshments will be served.

The sample home will be open all day Sunday and may be reached by going out Milford Road, East Stroudsburg and continuing one-half mile. Turn left at the big sign for Lake Valhalla.

Eisenhower's Announcement On Neutralized Arms Inspection Zones Brews New Storm

WHEN President Eisenhower said last week the United States would consider neutralized or arms inspection zones in Europe you could feel the storm brewing.

It brewed.

Although the angle was not mentioned—apparently not even considered—the subject of German reunification was deeply involved, as Secretary Dulles now agrees.

Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany, heavily engaged by political opponents opposed to German reunification and willing to make sacrifices of Western policy to approach reunification, was put on the spot.

The result is that Dulles has now been forced to knock a big hole in the bottom of Harold Stassen's arms control boat.

Following through on Russian proposals and on Anthony Eden's Geneva suggestions for a neutralized zone in Middle Europe, Stassen suggested in London that "test tube" inspection operations be undertaken.

areas mentioned could not be equated in importance.

The United States took it quietly, determined to keep the London discussions on a high level and to devise counter-proposals rather than deliver an outright rejection.

Now Dulles, faced with the necessity of upholding Adenauer's hands, has been forced into a partial rejection before counter-proposals.

He says there will be no zones of the type based on the East-West demarcation line in Germany, or anything else that tends to recognize the division of Germany.

Instead, he says the State Department is "thinking" about something in the arctic test the possibility of "open sky" deterrent against surprise attack.

Assessment Delay Awaits Approval

By Leonard Randolph

A BILL to postpone the deadline for completion of uniform real estate assessment systems in counties such as Monroe is now up for approval in the House of Representatives in Harrisburg.

The bill would put the deadline at Jan. 1, 1959. This is a one-year extension from the present deadline. It marks the second time the State legislature has prolonged legal deadlines for completion of the system.

This postponement was introduced as legislation in the Senate by Sen. William J. Lane (D-Wash.). Lane said the extension was necessary to provide county commissioners with "sufficient time to do what is really a tremendous job."

Passage of the Lane bill in the Senate was on a 33-7 vote. Opponents of the bill attacked it as "an unnecessary extension" which was merely "playing for time."

A uniform assessment and taxation system was ordered installed in all counties with less than 250,000 population under a 1943 law.

One major opponent of Lane's bill, Sen. Harry Seyler, (R-York), said that "we have been giving one extension after another until it has gotten to the point that we are the laughing stock of the State."

A chief Lane supporter, Sen. Rowland B. Mahany, Republican floor leader, said however that more time was needed to set the plan in operation. Lane had originally asked that the deadline be pushed up to Jan. 1, 1960. The Senate cut that down to one year instead.

If the measure passes the House and is signed into law by Gov. Leader, it would mean that Monroe County Commissioners will have another year to complete the assessment revision program in this county.

Work on Monroe's uniform real estate assessment system has been stymied for more than a year. It was halted by former commissioners after the 1955 election when it became a campaign issue.

Present commissioners have taken some steps toward what they said would be resumption of the program. Most recently they embarked on what they termed a "study" to determine how much work had been done on the program.

County Solicitor L. A. Achtermann is in charge of the study but he has delegated the task to J.

Joseph McCluskey, local attorney and George Brands, county assessor.

McCluskey said yesterday that a report on the study should be forthcoming "in the near future". He said he could not set a precise date for the report, however.

Achtermann has maintained that commissioners must know how much work has been done on the assessment revision program before they can advertise for bids for its completion.

The last firm to work on the Monroe system was J. L. Jacobs Co., Chicago, Ill. Jacobs Co. was released from the local job in the 1955 post-election aftermath by Republican commissioners.

Ironically, word came yesterday that J. L. Jacobs Co. had completed its work on the assessment revision program for neighboring Carbon County. At a regular meeting Carbon commissioners said that the Jacobs firm had picked up an additional 2,450 parcels of land which had never previously appeared on county assessment charts or maps.

Carbon County officials said that these parcels would represent a sizeable increase in tax revenues for the county. Some of the parcels, however, may be of multiple-ownership or tax-exempt lands, commissioners said.

Jacobs Co. was hired to do the Carbon County system only last Summer. The company completed its job this past week, requiring only one 30-day extension for the full task, county commissioners there said. Jacobs workers used only 13 days of the extension time.

Miss Pocono Mountains Pageant To Be Sponsored By YMCA Aux. Here June 18

A "Miss Pocono Mountains" today at 1:30 to complete plans for the local pageant to be held at the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College on Tuesday, June 18. All members of the auxiliary are invited to attend to help plan for the event.

The local winner will compete in the state pageant. The winner of that pageant, in addition to a $1,000 scholarship, will also win the right to represent the state of Pennsylvania in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City in September.

Mrs. Kitson plans to name the chairman of the committee to assist in staging the Miss Pocono Pageant within the next few days. Already named were Mrs. Jack Shinn and Mrs. Holt Wyckoff to head the entries committee. Tickets, staging, program book, budget and finance committees will be named today. Mrs. Robert Miller will direct the pageant and handle publicity and Joe Whalen will act as master of ceremonies.

"The next Miss America might very well be living right here in the Poconos," Mrs. Miller said yesterday. "She may be the girl who sells your movie tickets, is your receptionist or secretary, or perhaps one of the youngsters in the high school play. If she is in the Poconos we must find her at the local contest on June 18, for it is communities like ours that make it possible to send a winner to the national finals."

Auxiliary Meets
The decision to sponsor the pageant was one of many highlights of the final meeting of the auxiliary held following a supper served to the Y directors and their wives, Mrs. E. B. Malsner, Mrs. Holt Wyckoff, Mrs. John Hill, Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. James Kitson were on the supper committee.

Mrs. Kitson, president, reported on the first year's accomplishments of the newly-reorganized YMCA Auxiliary which ended the year solvent and with an enlarged and active membership. With between 3000 and 4000 children using the Y facilities each month, she said she hoped that many of their parents will join the auxiliary next year.

Summer Dances
One of the projects of the auxiliary is the Teen-Age Saturday night dances. Mrs. Fred Rhodes, chairman, announced that the committee of teen-agers in charge of the dances had met and drawn up a list of rules of conduct which will be posted at the Y. Mrs. Rhodes also announced that the dances would be continued through the summer with the exception of the month of August when the gymnasium floor is to be refinished. Letters will be sent to the parents of the 300 youngsters who attend the dances asking them to volunteer for one night's duty as chaperones.

The teenage committee is composed of Mary Drake, Judy Rhodes, Donna Grover, Geraldine Brink, Kathy Heller, Virginia LeBar, Jane Harmon, Sandy Wicks, Carl Yost, Dan Peleski and Michael McMahon. The dances are limited to teen-agers of Junior High School and older.

New Officers
Officers elected to serve for next year include: Mrs. James Kitson, president; Mrs. Fred Rhodes, vice president; Mrs. John Shinn, recording secretary; Mrs. Theodore Price, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Seymour Katz, treasurer.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

There are a lot of amazing transformations in this world: bare branches bursting into bloom, caterpillars changing into butterflies, last year's tomboys turning into this year's beauties. But ranking right up among them is the transformation that takes place when the Skittlers Bowling League holds its annual luncheon.

It's hard to recognize even team-mates under all the hats, furs, gloves and earrings they suddenly blossom forth with. They looked too fragile to even lift a bowling ball yesterday, and judging by the averages I guess maybe some of us were all year; fragile, that is.

But getting back to the caterpillars, I'm going to repeat something I told you last February. You didn't pay any attention then. May now, with caterpillars carpeting the front porch and dropping on your bare heads and crawling down your necks, you'll listen.

The time to get rid of caterpillars is in the winter when they are in egg masses no bigger than a wad of chewing gum on the tips of the lower branches of the tree. You can break off the twig, egg mass and all, and burn them in the fireplace with none of this screaming, squirming and

Pupils Give Birthday Party For Teacher

Delaware Water Gap—When Mrs. Alys Morton, teacher of the third and fourth grades, came down stairs to her school room last Friday noon after having her lunch up in the lunch room, she found the 25 boys and girls in her room had transformed the school room by decorating it to give a birthday party to their teacher.

The committee in charge were Deborah Ott, Cecelia Maxwell, Linda Widdows, William Heitler, Douglas Ott, Lavinia Singer, Russell Cramer, Patsy Flynn, Linda Kitchen and Jack Singer. Lilacs brought by the children decorated the table and the room. A birthday cake made by two of the pupils, Susie Baldwin and Linda Snyder, was at one end of the table; and, one made by Mrs. Edna Singer at the other. Peggy Muchinsky had made the dish of fudge.

All the children made the fruit punch and each contributed to the ice cream. The table was stacked with cards and gifts. Roger Dunning, Principal of Elementary Education in Stroud Union, happened in on a school errand and was detained as a willing guest. Miss Alice Bellairs also arrived for her regular music session. Mrs. Wilhelm Heitler and Bobby Heitler delivered the ice cream and were also added to the guests. The children had initiated and planned the entire affair.

Mrs. Mendoza, a native of Honduras, served as delegate from that country to the Inter-American Commission of Women of the Pan American Union and later as the Commission's delegate to the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women. ## THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Thirty-one years is the age of Lufthansa German Airlines, one of the oldest and most distinguished in the world. And, if my guess is anywhere near accurate, it is probably somewhat more than the age of Gerhard Kemper, the ingratiating young man who is sales representative in this area. Mr. Kemper loves his job... that was evident when he traveled to Stroudsburg from his home in Philadelphia, just for the pleasure of talking about Lufthansa on the Wyckoff Shopper program of Wednesday morning.

I think everyone is air minded these days. Spring is in our hearts... vacation itch is afflicting our feet... and the peaceful blue of a cloud-softened sky is very inviting. We have, as Mr. Kemper will be the first to point out, come a long, long way in three decades... for 31 years ago, all planes were of plywood and canvas, and the Wright Brothers flight was a memory of only 17 brief years. When it began in 1926, Lufthansa transported passengers, but only within Germany.

It was Charles Lindbergh's non-stop flight across the Atlantic, in 1927, that opened an entirely new world to the aviation enthusiast. Airlines everywhere began experimenting with renewed vigor... there was a new type of plane construction... a new concept of the importance of aviation... an entirely new outlook upon an unexplored future. One great advance were the first all metal planes ever built—the German Junkers, F 13, introduced by Lufthansa in 1928. In 1932, Lufthansa investigated and tested the possibility of commercial flights across the ocean. A 2-engine Dornier Wal, or flying boat, was used for this purpose, and in 1934 scheduled service began across the Atlantic.

"One sensational thing about these first flights," Mr. Kemper explained in his fascinating accent, "was the re-fueling. There was a floating base in the ocean, mid-way across the Atlantic. The plane would land on the water nearby, would be picked up by a crane, refueled, and catapulted into the air."

"At that point I'd have been petrified," I remarked, "I'd have thought for sure my number was up. Just how did they get the planes back?"

Edna Brockman, who had arranged his visit, began to explain about catapults, but our guest simplified it. "Did you ever see a slingshot?" he asked, "Well—like this." He pulled back on an imaginative rubber band, and let it zing forward.

"And the plane REALLY went up?" I demanded.

"Of course. As a matter of fact, Lufthansa has never had a passenger fatality in all its years of operation... yet service has been continuous from the start, except for the decade between 1945 and 1955. There is one thing we should mention, however. Those first flights across the Atlantic and back cost about 2000.00. Now a round trip costs only 500.00 and there is never any stop for re-fueling. Ours is the one airline that has no stops scheduled." This is made possible, he said, by a type of auxiliary fuel supply carried under the wings.

Air travel also affords savings for families, he pointed out. Children under two travel for 10% of the adult rate; children from 2 to 12 for 50% of the adult rate, and there are family rates in which the head of the household pays full fare and others full fare less 300.00 unless they qualify for one of the special rates for children.

Lufthansa, Mr. Kemper emphasizes, is no longer a German enterprise serving Germany only. Its history very early saw it serving numerous European countries... and today Lufthansa flies to 19 countries on five continents, linking Rio, New York, and Persia in a fascinating, continuous chain. Hostesses are tri-lingual, and pilots between the United States and Germany are American, who have had vast experience with American airlines and serve Lufthansa while German pilots accumulate sufficient flying hours to re-qualify as captains. "No one knows all the requirements that must be met to safeguard the passenger's safety," he said.

A trans-oceanic flight today consumes about 12 hours... but in two years Lufthansa will be using Boeing 707 jets exclusively. It will then be possible to leave Frankfurt at noon and arrive in New York at noon—traveling for six hours with the sun. "These planes are so fast," Mr. Kemper explained, "that when the press was flown from Washington, D. C. to Chicago recently, they arrived 16 minutes before they left—due, of course, to time belt changes."

One more thing our guest would like me to mention—Lufthansa is the only airline that serves its food on china, rather than plastic, and brews its coffee as needed. "All this is very important to the ladies," he said. And we agree. So there you have the story of a great airline. To learn more about it, all you need do is call Edna Brockman, any day, at Wyckoff's... that's Stroudsburg 400.

Beville-Faulkner Wedding

Maie Ethel Faulkner, of Baltimore, Md., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Gant of Stroudsburg and Richard Payne Beville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Beville, of Stroudsburg, were married on Sunday, May 12, at 2:30 p.m. at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton performed the ceremony. Mrs. Alice Patterson was soloist.

The bride wore a gown of light blue nylon with matching accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. She was attended by Miss Viola Lewis of Baltimore, who wore a pink ensemble with a corsage of white rosebuds. Roger Ray of Stroudsburg served as best man to the bridegroom.

A family reception was held before Mr. and Mrs. Beville left for a wedding trip to New York State and Niagara Falls. They will make their home in Stroudsburg.

Mr. Beville was graduated from Binghamton Central High School and served as a sergeant in the second World War. For the past six years has been employed at the State Liquor Store. His bride is an alumnae of Howard University.

VFW Aux. Prepares For Poppy Days In Stroudsburg

Poppy headquarters will be set up in both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg beginning May 23 by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Aux. to Thomas P. Lambert Post. Headquarters in Stroudsburg will be in the former Wirt Miller storeroom, Main St., and in East Stroudsburg at Lesoine's.

A flag was presented to the post from the auxiliary with the president, Ethel Dickson, Frances Ransberger, Elizabeth Mader and George Albertson making the presentation.

Baseball

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

ACCORDING to Pathe, the official news organ of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, high school baseball coaches are decrying the lack of promotion of the sport.

Matt Zabitzka, sports editor of the Chester Times, in an article in the schoolboy magazine, pointed out that baseball is just not promoted on the big scale like other sports, mainly football and basketball.

He noted that it is nothing to see 5,000 to 10,000 at a football game and 1,000 at a court clash involving scholastic teams.

But in baseball, he says, if the number hits 100 it is a good day. Two coaches—Chester's Joe Brewster and Upper Darby's Carson Thompson—blame the coaches themselves for the lack of fan interest. They say the baseball coaches don't take the necessary time to arouse the attention of the student bodies at their respective schools.

They advocate showing World Series films and pep assemblies before the season starts to perk up the school's students.

Having a school official and prominent officials throwing out the first balls and displaying the band and cheerleaders at the first home opening is another lift to the sport, they figure.

These remarks by the above men are all well and good, but afternoon games at 4 p.m. and thereafter, we feel, do hurt attendance. Also having a winning team would help swell fan interest, especially of the townspeople.

Right now several schools are in the process of playing games after dark under the lights. One of these, Easton High, has found it most profitable.

When the Rovers were showing their wares in daylight, only a little over a 100 sifted their way through the gates. Now in the night, the crowd is playing before more than 700 per contest.

Night ball was the answer on a commercial scale—to the majors. It also could answer the whims of the school boys just as emphatically.

East Stroudsburg High lost to Bangor, 3-2, in 10 innings the other night at Bangor. But Jim Brimer, who's as good a booster any school would ever want, says the Cavaliers looked great in defeat.

Now Jim is not the type to go overboard on record—the relative merits of his Eastburg counterparts. Down deep, though, Brimer is as human as you or I and takes a setback of his special favorites just as hard as the next guy.

Brimer, who gave his all for Eastburg on the gridiron the past two years, wasn't emphasizing the individual play of the Cavaliers but was noting that the spirit was the best on the baseball team since the season got under way.

He said every player, right down to the lowest reserve showed more fight against the Maroon than at any time this year. "Every player was chipping away and full of typical Eastburg spirit," Brimer noted.

Jim serves as manager of the baseball team and also was manager of the basketball representatives of the North Courtland St. School.

He exemplifies the true student, athlete and fan. No school ever lost any ground with this type of boy roaming its halls.

Monday, May 20, is the deadline for submitting contracts in the Pocono Mountain League, secretary John Wernett of Saylorsburg informs us.

The session for filing the last of the pacts will be held at Dougherty's Forks Inn, Cresco. The meeting will get under way at 8 p.m.

Wernett hopes all contracts will be in by that time so that team rosters may be completed.

Stengel Benches Ford And Berra

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel benched pitcher Whitey Ford and catcher Yogi Berra last night for being involved, indirectly, in a night club fracas at the Copacabana in New York City Wednesday night.

Others who went under the tongue lashing of the New York Yankee manager were Mickey Mantle, infielder Billy Martin, pitcher Johnny Kucks and outfielder Hank Bauer, reportedly the principal character in the 2 a.m. fiasco at the night spot.

Bauer, it was reported, hit a delicatessen owner—200-pound Edwin Jones—in the nose.

ROLL IN PIN CLASSIC—Budweiser's bowling team, rated the best—recordwise and sportswise—in the nation will roll in the $40,000-plus Pocono-Slate Belt Bowling Tournament Saturday, and Sunday. The St. Louis team will bowl at Barrett Bowling Center at 8:30 p. m. Saturday and Slate Belt Center, Bangor, Sunday at 3 p. m. They are, left to right, first row, Tom Hennessey, Dick Weber and Ray Bluth. Second, Don Carter, Whitey Harris. Rear, Pat Patterson.

Twin City Tops Nebel's Takes Over 1st

TWIN CITY took over undisputed possession of first place in the Monroe County Softball League last night by tapping co-owners of the top, Nebel's Market 3-4, on the Stroudsburg Playground field.

Red Batton and Stan Tchorz combined on the hill for Twin City and handed Nebel's its first loss of the year.

A four-run first inning moved Twin City away to a lead they never relinquished. After Nebel's cut the margin to 4-3 in the fourth, they garnered two runs in each of the fifth and sixth to hold their margin. The Marketeers pushed over a pair in the seventh but the damage had already been done.

SHS Nine Under Arcs Today Cavaliers Nine Faces Hillers Here Today

Mountaineers Host Zephyrs Here At 8 P.M.

STROUDSBURG High will attempt to revive night baseball interest in the area here today when the Mountaineers host Whitehall under the lights at Gordon Giffels Field. The Lehigh Valley League contest will be under way at 8 p.m.

The Mountaineers' nine performance under the lights isn't the first for the Stroudsburg High. During the heydays of the Stroudsburg Poconos in the North Atlantic League, Mountaineers teams played periodically under the lamps. This was back in the late 1940s.

Ron (Super) Phillips or left-hander Jimmy Snyder may get the call for the Mountaineers. Phillips seems the likely nominee as Snyder pitched only last Tuesday against Slatington.

Stroudsburg's lineup will be practically the same as the one which has compiled a 3-3 record in the Lehigh Valley and an over-all 6-3 log.

Catching will be Don Stopp; Frank (Buddy) Radler will be on first; Ron Stopp will be on second; Barry Tretheway, short; and either John Schoonover or Joe Miranda on third.

In the outer garden, Charley Cramsey will be in left, Bob Pugh, Phillips or Art Fry in center, and John Hallock in right.

Tied for Lead
Whitehall enters Stroudsburg fighting for the LV season crown. The Zephyrs are knotted with Northampton and Palmerton for the league lead with a 4-1 record. Bob Gontkowski, a fastballing right-hander, will hurl for Whitehall. The 6-3 moundsman is rated one of the best hurlers in the Lehigh Valley area.

Two Games Set For Today In Monroe Loop

TWO GAMES are scheduled in the Monroe Scholastic Baseball League today. One contest finds league-leading, unbeaten Pocono Twp. High traveling to Pocono Pines to take on winless Tobyhanna, while the other finds Polk hosting Barrett at Kresgeville.

Pocono, coached by Harry Werkheiser, leads the pack with a 4-0 record. Tobyhanna is 0-2 on the season in the Monroe loop, while Polk's log is 2-3 and Barrett, 1-3.

The circuit's other entry, Chestnuthill sports a 3-2 mark.

EAST Stroudsburg High will be looking for its third win in the Lehigh-Northampton League today when the Cavaliers of Jack Kist entertain Fountain Hill at Memorial Stadium. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

The Cavaliers will be meeting a foe which only was able to crack the winner's circle for the first time last week. The Hillers dumped Bangor for its favorable verdict in L-N play.

Lupin May Start
Charley Lupin, a southpaw, will probably get the hurling nod for Eastburg. However, Kist may switch to Evan Reese, a rightie, if the situation arises for a change in pitchers.

Handling the slants of either Lupin or Reese will be Bob Stine, first base; Bob Kassner, second base; Johnny Hindman, shortstop; and Corky Smith, third.

In the outfield will be Frank Uppin, left; Roger Ray or Bob Plattenburg, center; Curt Hickman, Dale Metzgar, Helmut Gartner or Reese, in right field.

This contest will be the last home game for Kist's proteges. The Cavaliers wind up league competition against Wilson next week on the Easton suburbans' diamond.

Next Friday East Stroudsburg will close its 1957 campaign against arch-rival Stroudsburg in a night game at Gordon Giffels Field. The Cavalier and Mountaineer tilt is slated to get under way at 8 p.m.

Lions' Sabol Is Lacrosse Recruit

UNIVERSITY PARK — Joe Sabol is blazing a trail lacrosse coach. Ernie Baer hopes will buttress his manpower at Penn State.

Sabol, captain-elect of the football team, joined the lacrosse squad two weeks ago and nine days later played in his first game.

"Joe had never had a stick in his hand until he joined the squad," Baer says. "Now, he's a confirmed believer in lacrosse."

The Penn State coach regards the game as the perfect conditioner for football players, and Sabol is ready to agree.

"You certainly do a lot of running out there," the former Coal Township High School athlete vows.

Baer is confident Sabol will develop into a good player before he's finished. As a junior, the 190-pound mid-fielder has another full season of lacrosse ahead of him.
